

How to ensure that the next person who sleeps with your son or daughter doesn't run off with the family farm

A Cleary Hoare Bloodline Trust™ will protect your family's assets now, and ensure they stay in the family in the future.

It sounds unbelievable, but the fact is, if you pass on all or part of your business to a son or daughter, the next person they sleep with could run off with half of those assets – and the Family Court would do nothing to stop it.

The law would not only do nothing to protect you, it would work against you!

You could also be forgiven for thinking that a conventional Will and Testament will guarantee your wishes will be honoured when you die. The truth is, even a legally binding Will can be a lottery. There is no guarantee that your stated wishes will be respected, let alone the spirit of your wishes.

The good news is, this doesn't have to be the case. With Cleary Hoare's exclusive Bloodline Trust™ you can protect your family's assets and ensure your estate remains in your family's hands.

The Cleary Hoare Bloodline Trust™

Traditional business structures, such as partnerships and companies, simply don't work for farming families. These structures don't take into account the strong bonds between farming families and their land. For many on the land, these bonds are not only a matter of tradition, but also of financial survival.

Our Bloodline Trust has been designed specifically to protect you and your family. With a Bloodline Trust you can:

- Ensure your children get your inheritance and not a stranger.
- Protect your business with a tax effective ownership structure.
- Ensure your estate is divided exactly as you've planned.
- Protect your estate if your spouse remarries.
- Ensure your estate is not eroded by Tax.

Primary producers' workshop program

Our primary producers' workshops are run throughout rural Queensland and New South Wales, and have helped hundreds of farming families protect their assets and save tax through effective business structures.

At these workshops, we explain why traditional ways of structuring your business, such as partnerships, cannot guarantee you will keep control of your assets if things turn bad.

We also explain in plain, non-legal language how you can protect everything you and your family have worked hard to build by establishing a special form of family trust, a Bloodline Trust – and just how easy it can be.

Attend a workshop or come and talk with us

We are pleased to invite you and your family to our next workshop in your area or, if you prefer, we'd be happy to talk to you personally the next time we visit. And please keep in mind there is absolutely no obligation attached.

To arrange a time for us to talk, or to book your seats at our next workshop, telephone on 1300 363 401. Our offices are open from 8:30 am to 5:00 pm, Monday to Friday.
